Presents

Multiple Instructional Technologies at Work in the Foreign Language Classroom

A lunch and learn presentation with Hong Li (Senior Lecturer of Chinese) and Aya McDaniel (Instructor of Japanese) of the Department of Russian and East Asian Languages and Cultures

In recent years, ECLC workshops on instructional technologies have enabled us to invigorate the teaching and learning of foreign languages at Emory by incorporating technology in the classroom. At this Lunch and Learn, we will introduce a variety of projects using instructional technologies in Chinese and Japanese classes, including SoundCloud, Wimba, iPad apps, Storify, WordPress, VoiceThread, iMovie and YouTube videos. Based on students' feedback, we will discuss the impact of those technologies on student's achievements and engagements in the FL classroom.
