The ability to critically analyze the ways in which the media manipulates language has become a critical skill in our global information age. Developing media literacy in foreign languages requires creative curricula that incorporate social activities in the target community. Dr. Matsuda will demonstrate the incorporation of media literacy in foreign language classrooms through the analysis of gender bias in Japanese news media.